

LORNA OKOTTO

University of Surrey

L.Okotto@surrey.ac.uk

Lorna Grace Okotto joined Centre for Environmental Strategy at the University of Surrey in September 2006, as a PhD.

Research student in the Leverhulme project, an interdisciplinary project looking at the establishment of legal frameworks for independent water providers in Kenya and Ethiopia. Lorna has a bachelor's degree in Geography and Education from Moi University in Kenya and a Master of Philosophy degree in Environmental Planning and Management from the School of Environmental Studies also of Moi University Kenya. Lorna has worked in several capacities including as a researcher, with specific interest on issues related to water and access to water supply and was working for Victoria Institute for Research on Environment and Development (VIRED-International) as a projects coordinator prior to joining Centre for Environmental Strategy.